Katherine LaRue
Manager, Intern Program
Sony Interactive Entertainment PlayStation

Dear Ms. LaRue,

I would be thrilled to be part of the Gameplay Programmer Intern program at Santa Monica Studios on summer of 2020. I am very passionate about videogames which is why I always enjoy learning how to program or design them on my own besides what I learn in my career. I am currently studying the Computer Systems Engineering undergraduate degree, which will allow me to take the first step into becoming a videogame programmer.

My participation at the Game Design summer course of the "National Student Leadership Conference" program at American University, Washington D.C. in July of 2017 allowed me to develop strong communication skills. I also learned how to work in a fast-paced game development environment since we only had one week to complete our game.

During the semesters that I have coursed my career, I try to make every project related to game development to gain more experience in the area. Besides, the skills that I have developed during my "Videogame Development Project" and my "Object Oriented Programming" courses will allow me to provide useful insight for new ideas to the team and to be able to write, test and document highly functional code.

I have always admired PlayStation's consoles and exclusive games and thoroughly enjoyed every opportunity that I have had to play these games. Besides, I have always considered that PlayStation releases some of the best exclusive games from any platform. When considering a place where I could intern to gain a lot of insightful experience in game development, I immediately thought that PlayStation would be the best place to apply since it is one of the biggest companies in the industry.

I would love to participate at the Gameplay Programmer Intern program next summer and look forward to meeting you and working at the PlayStation Santa Monica Studios. Thank you for considering me.

Sincerely,
